NOEMIE VERNAUX CHARDONNAY

”Elegant and rich”

Story

Lady Noémie Vernaux is a prominent figure in the history of Bourgogne and as a persistent entrepreneur, this strong-willed woman founded the wine shop in 1851. At that time, a woman in business was an extraordinary exception. The shop still bears her name and represents quality and competence with the same determination and passion that Noémie Vernaux once had. In a blind tasting, you’d think this wine would come from Macon or Chalon. The level of wine is therefore excellent. Serve this Chardonnay chilled at 8 to 10 °C.

Producer

Barton & Guestier is a wine business with an almost three-century-long history, founded by the Irishman Thomas Barton in 1725 when he settled in the city of Bordeaux. In 1802, his grandson partnered with the Frenchman Daniel Guestier, and the business flourished for a long time, shipping Bordeaux wine on ships to Ireland, England, the Netherlands, and the USA. The esteemed company faced its biggest challenges due to the devastation caused by phylloxera and the two World Wars. While no longer family-owned, the traditions persist with dedicated professionals delivering French wines to 130 different countries, widely available even at international airports. Barton & Guestier's range showcases an impressive array of France's important wine regions: Bordeaux, the Loire Valley, Burgundy, Beaujolais, the Rhône Valley, Languedoc, Gascony, and Corsica. The company collaborates with around 200 winegrowers in these areas. Barton & Guestier focuses on offering high-quality, typically French wines to the world while considering the requirements of sustainable development.

COLOR Light golden yellow

AROMA The scent is reminiscent of ripe citrus fruits, yellow plums, yellow apples and vanilla

TASTE Richly fruity, elegantly acidic, mineral notes, well-balanced and long. At the long finish, there is lingering vanilla

TIPS FOR USE Noémie Vernaux Chardonnay is a tasty and elegant aperitif, it’s the perfect wine for quality seafood, shellfish, for white meat and mild cheeses. Caesar salad is also a great choice to enjoy with this wine.
