NOEMIE VERNAUX MERLOT

Barton & Guestier
DEPUIS 1725

"A well-balanced meat wine"

Story

Lady Noémie Vernaux is a prominent figure in the history of Bourgogne and as a persistent entrepreneur, this strong-willed woman founded a wine shop in 1851. At that time, a woman in business was an extraordinary exception. The shop still bears her name and represents quality and competence with the same determination and passion that Noémie Vernaux once had. Serve this Merlot chilled at 13 to 15 °C.

Producer

Barton & Guestier is a wine business with an almost three-century-long history, founded by the Irishman Thomas Barton in 1725 when he settled in the city of Bordeaux. In 1802, his grandson partnered with the Frenchman Daniel Guestier, and the business flourished for a long time, shipping Bordeaux wine on ships to Ireland, England, the Netherlands, and the USA. The esteemed company faced its biggest challenges due to the devastation caused by phylloxera and the two World Wars. While no longer family-owned, the traditions persist with dedicated professionals delivering French wines to 130 different countries, widely available even at international airports. Barton & Guestier's range showcases an impressive array of France's important wine regions: Bordeaux, the Loire Valley, Burgundy, Beaujolais, the Rhône Valley, Languedoc, Gascony, and Corsica. The company collaborates with around 200 winegrowers in these areas. Barton & Guestier focuses on offering high-quality, typically French wines to the world while considering the requirements of sustainable development.

COLOR Dark ruby red

AROMA The rich scent overflows with red fruits, fruitcake plums, blackcurrants, ripe cherries and vanilla

TASTE Lighter on the palate than on the nose, acidic with a good body, elegantly fruity, silky tannins and long

TIPS FOR USE Noémie Vernaux Merlot is a savoury meat wine, which is also well-suited as a game wine. Due to its acidity, it is also a versatile cheese wine.
