BARTH RIESLING BRUT

”A gorgeous sparkling Riesling”

Story

Riesling is the nobility of white wines and when the label shows that it comes from Rheingau, from a premium producer like Barth, the silver bell begins to ring cheerfully in the mind of the wine lover. But wait a minute Brut! Bubbles included and, of course, with the traditional method of bottle fermentation. So first fermented in steel tanks before the second, fermentation in the final bottle – which produces the bubbles. The result is an exhilarating, classy, festive wine, which challenges most of the world’s sparkling wines. Even at a bargain price.

Producer

"Rheingau is one of the world's most renowned wine regions, known for producing some of Germany's finest wines. In the heart of Rheingau, where the river makes a curve and vineyards are on south-facing slopes, Johann Barth began cultivating grapes in the sun-drenched hills of Hattenheim in 1948. His son Norbert transformed the place into a full-fledged winery in 1973. Norbert's daughter Christine married the talented oenologist Mark, who took the family name to continue the estate's traditions. Since 2010, they have modernized the estate extensively, and Barth's wines have received widespread acclaim. Riesling white wines are considered the kings of Rheingau, but alongside their production, Barth is a leading producer of traditional sparkling wine, Sekt. Customers highly appreciate them, from Lufthansa to Michelin-starred restaurants. Mark and Christine Barth's estate now spans 18 hectares, primarily cultivating Riesling (83%), along with Pinot Noir (12%) and Pinot Blanc. The grapes are grown biodynamically, and the estate is a member of both the VDP organization, representing Germany's finest estates, and the Charta association."
