BARTH RIESLING CHARTA BIO

”The nobility of Rheingau”

Story Charta was founded by Bernhard Breuer in 1983 and Barth is an original member of the organisation. The purpose of the organisation is to highlight the best features of Rheingau wines with a very strict control of wine making and to cherish their quality and style. Charta wines are always made from Riesling grapes and are carefully hand-picked from the best vineyards. Fermentation takes place with natural yeasts in steel tanks at very low temperatures. Charta wines can be identified by the Roman double arc. Barth Riesling Charta is an organic wine.

Producer "Rheingau is one of the world's most renowned wine regions, known for producing some of Germany's finest wines. In the heart of Rheingau, where the river makes a curve and vineyards are on south-facing slopes, Johann Barth began cultivating grapes in the sun-drenched hills of Hattenheim in 1948. His son Norbert transformed the place into a full-fledged winery in 1973. Norbert's daughter Christine married the talented oenologist Mark, who took the family name to continue the estate's traditions. Since 2010, they have modernized the estate extensively, and Barth's wines have received widespread acclaim. Riesling white wines are considered the kings of Rheingau, but alongside their production, Barth is a leading producer of traditional sparkling wine, Sekt. Customers highly appreciate them, from Lufthansa to Michelin-starred restaurants. Mark and Christine Barth's estate now spans 18 hectares, primarily cultivating Riesling (83%), along with Pinot Noir (12%) and Pinot Blanc. The grapes are grown biodynamically, and the estate is a member of both the VDP organization, representing Germany's finest estates, and the Charta association."
