5 ELEMENTOS RED (25CL)

”The elements form a whole”

CASA RELVAS
ALENTEJO | PORTUGAL

Story Alexandre Relvas describes wine 5 elementos enthusiastically: it is a good representation of the diversity and quality of Portuguese grapes, and traditional winemaking. And the blend is not limited to grape varieties, but also to soil variability, which can be seen in the dimensions of the wine. Chapter 5 also reflects our family: I was born into a family of five, i have five children, two of whom are now working on our lands in the fifth generation and have contributed to the production of this wine. According to the wine label, the five elements for making wine are metal, fire, earth, water and wood.

Producer Casa Relvas, a Portuguese winery, aims to produce quality wines for all occasions; wines that evoke good times and represent Alentejo's gift to the world. Established in 1997, the young company has experienced significant growth, managing 750 hectares of cork-producing forests, 250 hectares of olive groves, and 350 hectares of vineyards. Consistency in high-quality production characterizes the six million wine bottles produced annually, earning hundreds of awards and excellent reviews from wine critics. The producer has been awarded the Earth Friendly winery status and engages in numerous environmental conservation projects alongside winemaking. Relvas also focuses on sustainable development through social and economic initiatives. Five percent of Relvas' production is certified organic wines.

COLOR Deep ruby red

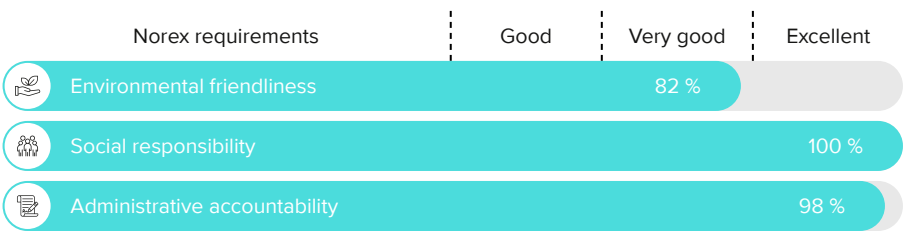

AROMA Red berries on the nose, especially blueberries and raspberries, fig, leather, cinnamon, cocoa and minerals

TASTE The taste is medium-bodied, succulent notes of berries, pleasantly tanninous, lightly spicy with mineral notes. The wine is easily approachable, but it has a fine texture and a long, lingering finish

TIPS FOR USE This wine is a true multitasker. A glass tastes great when preparing food or lighting a barbecue. A superb wine for appetisers or a buffet, great for pasta or pizza, meat dishes of course or also, excellent for grilled or smoked fish. Any cheese fits well.
