HERDADE DE SÃO MIGUEL ESQUECIDO BRANCO

"The Great Forgotten"

Story The name Esquecido means forgotten, because the casks of the test batch were left in the warehouse. The name could also be unforgettable – if you can't afford Burgundy, white wine Esquecido is a good backup plan. The Arinto grapes grown in clay and slate were harvested by hand, soaked for 24 hours before fermentation, which took place in 400 litre oak casks during two weeks. The wine was matured for 16 months in French oak casks. 2021 was an excellent wine year for Alentejo. Only a small batch of wine is produced and the bottles are numbered.

Producer Casa Relvas, a Portuguese winery, aims to produce quality wines for all occasions; wines that evoke good times and represent Alentejo's gift to the world. Established in 1997, the young company has experienced significant growth, managing 750 hectares of cork-producing forests, 250 hectares of olive groves, and 350 hectares of vineyards. Consistency in high-quality production characterizes the six million wine bottles produced annually, earning hundreds of awards and excellent reviews from wine critics. The producer has been awarded the Earth Friendly winery status and engages in numerous environmental conservation projects alongside winemaking. Relvas also focuses on sustainable development through social and economic initiatives. Five percent of Relvas' production is certified organic wines.

COLOR Light golden colour.

AROMA Seductive elegance on the nose, white peach, honeydew melon, gooseberries, white currants, Kampot white pepper, butter, cream, vanilla and oaky spiciness.

TASTE The taste is dry, elegantly fruity, lively, nuanced, creamy, long and well-balanced.

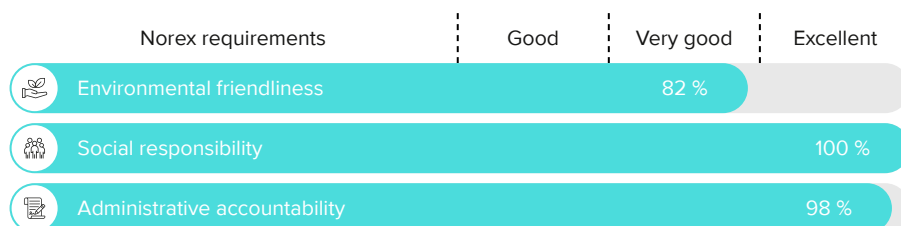

TIPS FOR USE Esquecido is a delicious and elegant companion for fine seafood, lobster, white meat, for many seafood treats and white cheeses like brie.
