POM POM ROSE MAGNUM

CASA RELVAS
ALENTEJO | PORTUGAL

Story

Casa Relvas's Pom-Pom Rosé is a tribute to the elegance of Alentejo. This hand-harvested wine is made exclusively from dark grapes: Aragonês, Touriga Nacional, and Syrah, indicating saignée method and only light skin contact for 8-10 hours, after which the juice is pressed and fermented in cooled stainless steel tanks, with a portion also in oak barrels. The result is breathtakingly delicious. Ten percent of the wine has aged in French oak barrels for 4 months, adding creaminess, structure, and elegance.

Producer

Casa Relvas, a Portuguese winery, aims to produce quality wines for all occasions; wines that evoke good times and represent Alentejo's gift to the world. Established in 1997, the young company has experienced significant growth, managing 750 hectares of cork-producing forests, 250 hectares of olive groves, and 350 hectares of vineyards. Consistency in high-quality production characterizes the six million wine bottles produced annually, earning hundreds of awards and excellent reviews from wine critics. The producer has been awarded the Earth Friendly winery status and engages in numerous environmental conservation projects alongside winemaking. Relvas also focuses on sustainable development through social and economic initiatives. Five percent of Relvas' production is certified organic wines.

COLOR Pink, with salmon hue

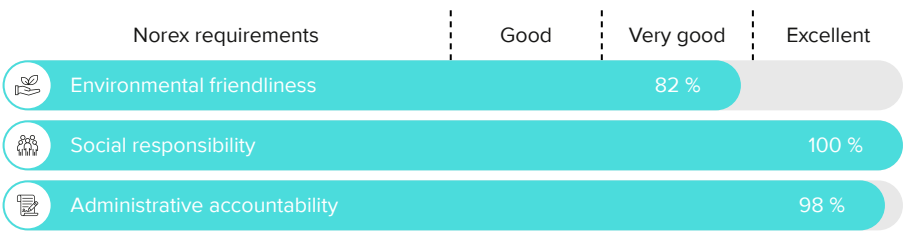

AROMA A charming, fresh aroma floods with fresh apricot, white currants, lemon, marzipan, red apple, rhubarb, and ripe gooseberries. The scent alone entices you to the next glass.

TASTE The taste is dry, refreshingly acidic, lusciously fruity, balanced, and very lively. The elegant flavor is simultaneously fresh, supple, mouth-filling, and long-lasting. The finish lingers with a light minerality. Wow and Pom-Pom!

TIPS FOR USE The delicious Rosé Pom-Pom is perfect as a social wine. It works wonderfully as an aperitif, pairs well with appetizers, and complements salads, sushi, grilled fish, and mild cheeses.
