Australia, Gouth Australia | 2020 MOONLIGHTERS RED BLEND

"Succulent red wine"

Moonlighters reaches the essence of RedHeads' concept. In the evenings, determined young winemakers came to the RedHeads studio after a day's work at a big company, they threw in a cold beer and began to make uncompromising wine with great passion during the evening and night hours. Merlot and Petit Verdot both contribute to the mix. Creators were free to experiment, and the result won prizes. McLaren Vale was the starting point and the same super-innovative trend continues in Barossa Valley, blending varieties and regions. Night work rewards the gig worker.

Productor RedHeads originated when a group of Australians went to France to teach an old dog new tricks. Australia had caused quite a stir with its wines in the 1970s and 1980s. The seed for RedHeads was planted. In a small shed in McLaren Vale, a few winemakers decided to shake off the chains of large corporations and start making 'real' wine, in small batches, by hand, just like in the old days. This required small, top-quality plots of land whose growers never got to taste the fruits of their labor because big corporations turned them into unreasonably expensive wines. There was honor in it, but couldn't those wines be enjoyed too? RedHeads bring these grapes to their Studio vineyard, a few rows at a time, giving them special treatment – handcrafted, carefully, skillfully, monitored day and night. RedHeads aims to produce unique wines meant to be enjoyed. They are environmentally conscious; their GreenHeads project continuously works on innovations to save water and energy, protect pollinators, and keep their operations human-sized.
