FIDORA TENUTA CIVRANETTA PROSECCO

FIDORA

ORGANIC SINCE 1974

Story

Fidora Prosecco is made from Glera biodynamic grapes, and the wine is Demeter certified at product level. This vineyard has been on the Civranetta vineyard in the Veneto region since the 15th century, and it switched to organic production in 1974. "Caranto" strips embroider the ground, shaped by the Ice Age, lime-spotted clay-slug deposits. The Mediterranean climate and winds give the wine a delightful and refined aroma, which makes it very Italian. The second fermentation giving the effervescence is done by tank fermentation slowly over a period of more than 8 weeks, which ensures durable, small bubbles. Wine suitable for vegan

Producer

"In 1974, Guido Fidora decided to transition to organic farming on his family estate. At that time, it wasn't fashionable, and organic methods didn't represent any added value for consumers. There were no books, research, or teachers on the subject. Experience taught him. Now, in the fourth generation, biodiversity forms the foundation of their production. Bordering trees, hedges, thickets, and ponds protect both the vines and the plants growing on the estate, along with hares, foxes, pheasants, ducks, herons, and wild boars moving around there. At Lorenzo Fidora's estate, they haven't returned to the good old days but have taken a step forward toward quality, health, sustainable development, and environmental responsibility, supported by new technology and research. The Fidora family has cultivated the Civranetta estate for almost a century and believes that commitment, perseverance, and experience make their grapes special even before they reach the cellar. An early start means a lot to the family: they didn't just embark on this; they grew up with these thoughts. Their wines reflect their world—native varieties, soil, and local climate."
